

Social Marketing

Using social media to generate leads and improve ROI

People spend more time on social media than they do emailing, shopping, and online gaming combined.

Are you getting the returns you want from Facebook?

A new “like” doesn’t exactly equal a new dollar. Until now there have been two problems with social media:

1. Small business owners are too busy to make regular posts
2. The return on investment isn’t measurable. In other words, it’s too hard to see if it’s making you money.

Introducing Social Marketing:

The easiest way to create compelling business channels and find real time leads.

If you're serious about making money with social media, there are three components that are critical to your success:

1. Easy publishing and monitoring capabilities
2. Profiles with informative and entertaining content
3. Actionable leads that bring in actual dollars

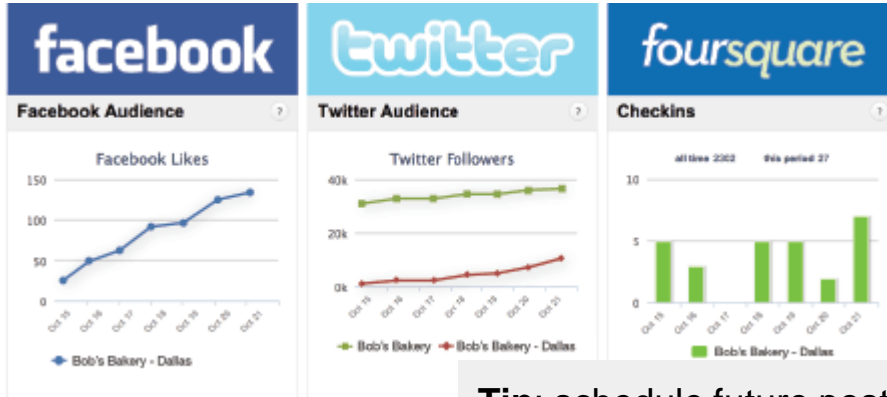

Did You Know:

51% of Facebook users are more likely to buy from brands they follow
64% of Twitter users are more likely to buy from the brands they follow

Part 1: Faster Publishing

Monitor and update your Facebook, Twitter, foursquare, and Google+ accounts from the same window.

The interface shows a 'Post To' section with options for Facebook, Twitter, and LinkedIn. Below this is a 'Scheduled Posts' section with three posts:

- Post 1: 'Come join us for our 15th anniversary!' Scheduled for Oct 31 at 09:10 AM. Includes social sharing icons and a 'delete' button.
- Post 2: 'Wings are half price all day! Get here quick before they're all gone' Scheduled for Jan 31 at 08:34 AM. Includes social sharing icons and a 'delete' button.
- Post 3: '% off appetizers today!' Scheduled for Feb 14 at 11:52 AM. Includes social sharing icons and a 'delete' button.

Tip: schedule future posts too. Lots of businesses prefer to set aside time on Sundays or Mondays to queue up posts for the whole week so that they don't have to worry about it every day.

Part 2: Engaging Content

Find articles and conversations that your customers are interested in and publish them to your own pages.
